

A part-time Research Assistant/Student Intern position is open to highly-motivated people wishing to participate in cutting-edge biomedical research.

The principal job duties include:

- Assisting senior scientists in performing molecular and cell biology experiments
- Assisting in lab organization and performing assigned tasks.

The successful candidate will have excellent written and verbal communication skills; and the ability to effectively work in a team-oriented environment. Requirements include basic undergraduate coursework in chemistry, biochemistry, modern biology, or a related field. Undergraduate students working toward a degree in these fields are welcome to apply.

Please send resume and letters of reference to Dr. Ron Yu at cry@stowers.org